

Mindy Kaling Is Still Getting Paid From 'The Office'

Mindy Kaling has revealed that she's still receiving money from starring The Office.

The 42-year-old actress and producer opened in a recent appearance on Watch What Happens Live with Andy Cohen this week that nearly a decade after the show went off the air, she's still receiving paychecks from re-runs of the show.

"The checks are still pretty good, they're pretty good," Mindy shared, before joking that she only became rich "five years ago."

She added that the checks aren't "buy a house good. But they're like, help pay for your kid's education good."

Mindy didn't only star on the long running NBC show as Kelly Kapoor, she was also a writer on the program, too.

She also recalled one of her pet peeves of the set – the temperature!

"We used to keep The Office set very cold," Mindy shared. "It was, like, 60 degrees and I remember not being able to do anything about that. It's just a little cold."

Just recently, Mindy got an apology from Stephen Colbert. See what happened here!

Originally found on Just Jared Read More